NOTE ABOUT PAGE NUMBERS. Adler/Routledge refers to the traditional British Machzor, known as either the Adler after its editor or the Routledge after its publisher. The 'ArtScroll A' refers to the Ashkenaz edition and the 'ArtScroll S' refers to the Sefard edition. The Birnbaum High Holiday Machzor has two editions, a single volume and a two-volume. The Birnbaum page numbers in this guide refer to the single volume edition. 'Chabad' refers to the old Chabad Hebrew/English Machzor (usually blue). 'Annotated' refers to the Chabad Annotated Edition (red cover) first published 2006.

Whenever the Prayer number is coloured Red that prayer can be found transliterated in the Annotated Machzor and the page number for the transliteration is referenced in this booklet immediately after the name of the prayer. It is hoped that by including the transliterations in this booklet, even those less familiar with Hebrew will be able to follow and sing many of the main prayers along with the rest of the congregation.

Welcome to the Yom Kippur Service

Yom Kippur, the holiest day of the year, is the culmination of the Ten Days of Repentance. This is the day on which G-d declared “I have forgiven,” after Moses prayed and fasted on behalf of the Jewish people after their sin of the Golden Calf. The tenth day of Tishrei is the Day of Atonement for all generations, a day when G-d forgives all our sins. It is a day filled with fasting and prayer.

On Yom Kippur we receive what is perhaps G-d's most sublime gift – His forgiveness. When one person forgives another, it is because of a deep sense of friendship and love that overrides the effect of whatever wrong was done. Similarly, G-d's forgiveness is an expression of His eternal, unconditional love for each and every one of us.

Though we may have transgressed His will, our essence – our soul – remains G-dly and pure. This is the day of At-One-Ment, the one-day each year when G-d reveals most clearly that our essence and His essence are one. Moreover, on the level of the soul, the Jewish people are all truly equal and indivisible.

On this day we pour out our hearts in prayer and commit to renew our relationship with our Creator.

However, many people lack familiarity with the prayers. Perhaps due to unfamiliarity with the machzor or inadequate Hebrew reading skills, the evocative and soul stirring prayer service can be transformed into a mad scramble of flipping pages, looking for the ‘place’ or a vain effort to keep up with the congregation. We therefore present this Service Guide with the hope that it will enable a better understanding of the various prayers and the order of the service. We hope that this will serve to enhance your Synagogue experience.

We have also added a number of points to ponder. Although it might sound somewhat sacrilegious, we invite you to occasionally pause from the communal prayers and think deeper about a particular phrase that may have caught your eye, or to search within yourself for the inspiration that our sages placed within the sacred pages.

More important than keeping up with the congregation is that the prayers are meaningful to you. If a particular prayer speaks to you, spend time meditating or reflecting on it. Prayer is a dialogue between you and G-d. Whatever page you are on is the right page.

We bless you with forgiveness and peace,

Rabbi Elisha & Leah Greenbaum, Rabbi Mendel & Chaya Mushka Haller and the President and Board of Moorabbin Hebrew Congregation – The Friendly Shul

1. Opening Prayers	439	15	56	64	489	23	35

Yom Kippur has just begun and we begin with what is possibly the most well-known prayer of the year, Kol Nidrei.

Men wear a Tallit for the Kol Nidrei and evening service on Yom Kippur eve.

Rise for the opening of the ark, and remain standing through the completion of Kol Nidrei. Two people flank the Chazan holding Torah scrolls to form a Beth Din – a religious court, since Kol Nidrei and the admission of “sinners” has a formal and legal nature to it.

When the Torah scrolls are brought to the leader, we begin reciting Ado-nai Malach (When the L-rd will reveal), and the Chazan will recite the last two lines aloud.

Following this, the Chazan will ask permission from on High to include everyone – even the most insubordinate Jew – in our prayers. Jewish unity will spirit our prayers ever higher.

Do I feel a sense of unity with my fellow Jews? How do I demonstrate my appreciation and need for others?

2. Kol Nidrei (All Vows...)	439	15	58	66	489	23	36
------------------------------------	------------	-----------	-----------	-----------	------------	-----------	-----------

The Chazan chants Kol Nidrei three times, beginning in a soft voice, slowly rising with each repetition, like one who is petitioning a king, first in a humble tone and slowly gaining in confidence. The three repetitions correspond to the three soul-garments of thought, speech and action.

3. Venislach (And may the entire...)	439	15	60	68	491	24	36
---	------------	-----------	-----------	-----------	------------	-----------	-----------

Repeat this stanza three times after the Chazan has done so. Soon, we will proclaim “Vayomer Ado-nai Salachti Kidvarecha” (and the L-rd said: I have pardoned in accordance with your words) three times ahead of the Chazan.

4. Shehecheyanu Blessing	439	-	60	68	491	24	36

Except for the women who have already done so when lighting candles, we say the blessing Shehecheyanu, which is made at the start of each Festival to thank j.b.G-d for having brought us to another special occasion in life. We conclude the blessing ahead of the Chazan in order to answer Amen.

For what do I feel especially thankful?

Blessing One's Children

Many communities have the custom to bless their children at this juncture with the Priestly Blessings: “The L-rd spoke to Moses saying: Speak to Aaron and his sons, saying: This is how you shall bless the children of Israel, saying to them: 'May the L-rd bless you and watch over you. May the L-rd cause His countenance to shine to you and favour you. May the L-rd raise His countenance toward you and grant you peace.' They shall bestow My Name upon the children of Israel, so that I will bless them.”

Followed by (for sons) May G-d make you like Ephraim and Manashe
& (for daughters) May G-d make you like Sarah, Rivka, Rachel and Leah

The sons of Joseph, Ephraim and Manashe, were born and raised in Egypt; a profoundly secular society. Yet they remained faithful to the morals and ideals that were espoused by their grandfather Jacob, as they were transmitted through their father Joseph.

To be great amongst great people is also a challenge, but to maintain a high level of spirituality and character amongst a society that is devoid of morals and ethics is the real test.

This is what we wish for our children. We would love to forever protect them in our loving, nurturing environment. However, that is usually not a possibility – nor should it be. There will be times in their lives when the beliefs and morals that we raised them with will be challenged by their peers, society or the environment.

Be like Manasseh and Ephraim, we bless them. Have the strength to withstand the pressures of society and do the right thing.

Do I have the strength of character to do the right thing, even during the hard times? How will the next 25 hours of Yom Kippur, hard though may be, change me for the better?

5. Maariv/Evening Service	43	17	62	78	495	24	37
----------------------------------	-----------	-----------	-----------	-----------	------------	-----------	-----------

We stand as the service begins with Kaddish and Borchu. We bow our head for Borchu in reverence to the One and Only G-d. After Borchu we may be seated.

6. Shema (Hear O Israel)	441	18	68	80	495	29	44

The Shema, the essence of our faith, is recited at this point. It is customary to cover our eyes with our right hand while reciting the first verse of the Shema, to promote deep concentration.

Tonight, we recite the second line of the Shema – “Baruch Shem Kevod Malchuto Leolam Vaed” aloud. Moses heard this beautiful prayer from the angels and taught it to Israel. During the year we recite this quietly, so as not to ‘taunt’ the angels from whom this prayer was ‘taken’. However, on Yom Kippur, since we are compared to angels (hence the white garb), we recite it out loud.

We forgo reciting these holy words throughout the year in deference to the feelings of angels. Angels?! Am I as sensitive to the feelings of people as I could be?

7. The Amidah	21	78	90	503	32	47

We rise for the Amidah, the prayer in which we pour forth our requests to G-d. Before beginning the Amidah, we take three steps back, and then three steps forward, as if approaching a king. This is a silent prayer, a time for devotion and reflection, and should be pronounced quietly, not simply scanned with our eyes.

8. Al Chet (For the sin...)	26	94	106	511	38	53
------------------------------------	-----------	-----------	------------	------------	-----------	-----------

During the Amidah of Yom Kippur we recite a unique prayer called Al Chet (For the sin...). This is meant to be an intimate moment when we acknowledge our iniquities before G-d, who knows “the mysteries of the universe and the hidden secrets of every human being.”

The first essential step in Teshuvah – repentance – is acknowledgement of the wrongdoing. Acknowledging our sins in words, helps us reach the understanding that our sins are wrong and cannot be rationalised away.

The Al Chet is broken down into four sections; in between each section we say: “for all these, G-d of pardon, pardon us, forgive us, atone for us.” Pardon (Selach) – for sins we committed without personal benefit; Forgive (Mechal) – for intentional sins done for personal benefit; Atone (Kapper) – for unintentional sins.

While reciting the word Shechatanu (we have committed) we gently strike (with a closed fist) the left side of our chest (over the heart), which is the seat of emotion, thus demonstrating the need for our mind to rule our emotions.

Does my mind rule my heart, or is it, unfortunately, the other way around?

9. Vayechulu (The heavens and the earth...)		100			41	57
--	--	-----	--	--	----	----

The following few paragraphs discuss how G-d completed the work of creation on the seventh day and He rested, and the beauty and gift of Shabbat. This section is only read on Shabbat.

10. Yaaleh (May our supplications ascend)	414	31	102	114	521	42	58

This poem serves as an overall introduction to the prayers of Yom Kippur. It follows reverse Alef-Bet order, demonstrating that after man reaches the full extent of his understanding; he should go back to the beginning and deepen his spiritual understanding even more. We beseech G-d to hear our prayers over the next 24 hours.

During the evening service the Ark is opened anew for each hymn, indicating opening a new dimension of the soul. In total the Ark is opened five times, corresponding to the five levels of the soul.

11. Shomei-ah Tefillah (You who hearkens...)		32	104	116	523	43	59

We now begin the Selichot section – a collection of verses that express G-d's greatness and willingness to forgive us.

The composers of these supplications include some of the outstanding figures of Talmudic times as well as great Sages from later periods. These compositions are infinitely more than exquisite poetry: they were written with Divine inspiration.

G-d speaks through me at times too. How do I convey His message?

12. Darkecha (It is your way)	414	34	108	120	527	44	61
--------------------------------------	-----	----	-----	-----	-----	----	----

The two-line refrain to the following prayer comments on G-d's nature of being long suffering and forbearing, for His children's sake.

13. Hashem, Hashem (L-rd, L-rd)	447	-	110	122	529	44	62

Moses felt that Israel's sin of the Golden Calf was so terrible that there was no possibility of his intercession on their behalf. Thereupon, G-d appeared to him in the guise of a chazzan wrapped in a Tallit and taught a special prayer known as the "Yud Gimmel Middot Harachamim" -13 attributes of mercy.

G-d said, "Whenever Israel sins, let them recite this prayer and I will forgive them." This appeal for G-d's mercy reassures us both that Teshuvah is always possible and that G-d always awaits our return.

14. Selach Na (Pardon the wrongdoings)	442	36	112	124	531	45	63
---	-----	----	-----	-----	-----	----	----

The next two poems express our plea to G-d to forgive us, and our confidence in His willingness to do so. The beginning of each sentence paraphrases Moses' plea to G-d to forgive the Jewish nation after the sin of the Golden Calf. We sing each stanza with the Chazan.

15. Omnam Ken (Indeed, it is true)	442	38	116	128	533	46	64

This paragraph uses the refrain Salachti (I have pardoned) – paraphrasing G-d's assurance to Moses that He will forgive His people.

This poem was composed by one of the Tosafot, Rabbi Yom Tov ben Yitzchak in 1190, during the anti-Jewish riots that broke out in England following the coronation of Richard the Lion-Hearted. The Jews of York were shut up in a castle and surrounded by an angry mob. At the urging of their leader, R' Yom Tov, they decided to kill themselves rather than submit to forced baptism.

What have I been called on to give up for Hashem and Judaism?

Once again, we declare G-d's 13 attributes of Mercy.

Transliteration Adler/Rout ArtScroll A ArtScroll S Bimbaum Chabad Annotated

17. Ki Hinei Kachomer (Indeed, as the clay...) 443	39	120	132	537	47	66

In this song, we describe how our lives are in G-d's hands: like clay in the sculptor's hands or a tapestry in the weaver's hands, our lives are moulded by Him. We ask G-d to overlook the evil inclination that has led us to do wrong, and to recall His covenant to always look after us.

--	----	-----	-----	-----	----	----

Once again, we declare G-d's 13 attributes of Mercy.

19. Shema Koleinu (Hear our voice) 443	45	126	138	545	50	70

We repeat the next four lines responsively after the Chazan. Each line highlights our plea to G-d not to abandon us, and to have mercy on us at this crucial time.

Think of an occasion when you felt lost or abandoned; now pray to G-d to spare you in the future.

20. Elo-heinu..Ki Anu (Our G-d..For we are) 443	45	128	140	545	50	71
--	----	-----	-----	-----	----	----

We joyfully describe the unique closeness to G-d that we, the Jewish nation, enjoy. This song first lays out 12 aspects of the relationship we have with G-d, and then four aspects of our sin and inadequacy. G-d is merciful and infinite, therefore we confess our sins and seek His forgiveness.

21. Ashamnu (We have transgressed) 444	46	130	142	547	51	71

The next section follows the order of the Hebrew alphabet and forms a general confession. We gently strike our chest (over the heart, with a closed fist) while saying each phrase in this paragraph.

22. Al Chet (For the sin...) 444	49	132	144	551	52	73

We once again recite the full confession as we did during the silent Amidah, gently strike the left side of our chests with a close fist each time we recite the word Shechatanu (we have committed).

Sins are understood not as mere transgressions but as disconnections. When we sin, we displace and disconnect ourselves from our own true self. A sin is therefore not committed just against G-d, it is committed against the self which is one with G-d. Teshuvah – Repentance, which requires confession or acknowledgement, is the process of realigning with and returning to our real self, our Divine soul.

A fundamental step towards forgiveness is verbally confessing one's mistakes. There are people I have offended in the past, isn't it time I approached them to admit "I was wrong".

23. V'David Avdecha (David, Your servant) 444	51	136	148	557	55	76

The next few pages are selections of Selichot (Supplications). In these prayers, we will ask G-d to forgive our shortcomings. Towards the end of the section, we ask G-d to remember us in a positive light as He did for so many of the famous characters in Jewish history.

24. L'David Mizmor (By David, a Psalm) 444	-	148	160	91	59	82

This prayer is recited with tremendous focus and concentration. It is a Segulah, golden opportunity, to create the special vessel for G-d's blessings of sustenance and livelihood. The first line states, "the earth and all therein is the L-rd's".

The key to success is recognising where the source of blessings is, and acting accordingly.

25. Aleinu (It is incumbent upon us) 438	58	152	164	571	60	85

This declaration of faith was composed by Joshua after he led Israel across the Jordan river. The Bach (Rabbi Yoel Sirkis, 1561-1640) explains that Aleinu was added to the daily prayers to implant faith in the unity of G-d's Kingship, and the conviction that He will one day remove idolatry from the earth.

Concluding Prayers In many communities the Yom Kippur evening service concludes with the recital of various Tehillim (Psalms). Some communities chant Yigdal, Anim Zemirot and Adon Olam.

26. Opening Prayers	444 & 445	16	282	294	133	78	115
----------------------------	----------------------	-----------	------------	------------	------------	-----------	------------

The opening prayers are mostly devoted to the expression of thanks for G-d's help and grace. The central theme of these passages is G-d's reign upon all the earth. Thus, while we recognise our good fortune in that G-d has been especially gracious to us in bringing us close to Him, we hope and pray for the day when all the nations of the world will also acknowledge G-d and fear Him.

27. Baruch She-omar (Blessed is He who spoke)		16	284	318	135	89	125

We rise before reciting, men gather the front two fringes of their prayer-shawl or Tzitzit, and hold them in their right hand. We may be seated at the conclusion of this prayer.

The two main expressions of praise in the Boruch She-omar are a) Hillul & b) Shevach.

The first means general praise and surrender to G-d, the 2nd, shevach, refers to special praise as consequence of being able to recognise and understand G-d through learning His ways.

The 1st is instinctive and given by the entire community, the 2nd is done by the small circle of true servants who devote their lives to study of His torah and His work in the world.

To which group do I belong? Why or why not?

28. Ashrei (Happy are those)	437	25	304	324	153	90	127
-------------------------------------	------------	-----------	------------	------------	------------	-----------	------------

The Psalm of Ashrei introduces a series of songs of praise, written by King David. We take a closer look at the beautiful world we live in, and offer praise to its Maker.

29. Vayevarech David (And David blessed)		29	312	332	161	94	131
---	--	-----------	------------	------------	------------	-----------	------------

We rise for a set of prayers recounting our exodus from Egypt and praising G-d for His deliverance. Remain standing until after section 32.

30. Hamelech (The King)		33	320	342	581	99	135
--------------------------------	--	-----------	------------	------------	------------	-----------	------------

Remain standing as the leader of the Shacharit service takes his place and begins a moving melody describing G-d sitting on His lofty throne.

What is a king today, and what relevance does it have to my life?

31. Shir Hama-alot (A song of ascents)		-	324	346	583	100	136

This prayer evokes forgiveness and supplication. It opens with “from the depth of my heart I call to you” – our prayers to G-d need to come from deep within; a service of the heart and soul.

32. Kaddish and Borchu	137	34	324	346	583	101	137

Borchu is recited standing, and with a special bow of the head in reverence to the One and Only G-d.

Borchu is a summons or call by the chazzan to join him in praising G-d. It is explained in kabbala that all mitzvos require preparation. We want to think about the great significance of the action we are about to perform, not enter it blindly like automations.

Stop for a moment and consider: “To Whom am I praying? Before Whom am I standing?” Then, and only then, respond.

33. The Shema (Hear O Israel)	441	41	344	366	599	105	141
--------------------------------------	------------	-----------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

In preparation for the Shema, men gather all four fringes of their prayer-shawl - The Shema, the essence of our faith, is then recited.

It is customary to cover our eyes with our right hand while reciting the first verse of the Shema, to promote deep concentration.

The second line starting “Baruch Shem” is recited out loud just like the angels.

34. The Amidah	44	350	372	605	108	145

We rise for the Amidah, the prayer in which we pour forth our requests to G-d. Before beginning the Amidah, we take three steps back, then three steps forward, as if approaching a King.

Since this is the Day of Atonement, we recite the verbal confession in the Amidah. Starting with Ashamnu (444) (We have transgressed), and later, with each Al Chet (For the sin), we gently strike the left side of our chest over our heart, for the lusts and desires of the heart led us to sin. We should feel deep remorse for transgressing G-d's will, and resolve never to return to these errant ways.

35. Repetition of the Shacharit Amidah	53	366	388	623	116	156

The Chazan begins the “repetition of the Amidah”, where he will represent us on High and ask G-d to bless us with all good things for the coming year.

We begin with the request “Hashem, open my lips and allow my mouth to tell of your praises”. I have no real idea what to say to G-d, but I beg Hashem Himself to place in my mouth the appropriate words.

36. Aimecha Nasati (I am awe-stricken)	53	366	388	623	116	156
--	----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The Chazan expresses how daunting a task it is for him to represent us to G-d on this Day of Awe.

37. Imatzta Asor (You have established)	54	368	390	625	117	157
---	----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

We read this paragraph quietly. It describes the fact that Yom Kippur possesses special powers to atone on our behalf for even the most serious sins.

38. Atah Hu Elo-heinu (You are our G-d)	446	57	376	398	633	118	159

This is a short prayer describing G-d's greatness, each line starting with the next letter of the Alef-Bet.

We repeat the first phrase after the Chazan, and then each set of two phrases ahead of the Chazan.

39. Moreh Chata-im (You instruct sinners)	58	376	398	635	118	160

The next paragraphs are said responsively with the Chazan. He reads the full line, and we respond with the half-line refrain that follows. After every three lines, we all read the refrain aloud.

This section combines acknowledgement of G-d's greatness, expressions of Israel's age-old loyalty to Him, hopes for forgiveness, and expectations of Redemption and service in the Temple.

The 4th response reads “Dor ledor Yeshabach Ma'asecho – one generation to another will praise (yeshabach) your works.” Yeshabach can also be translated “to improve”; the purpose of every generation is to improve the world and make it a dwelling place for Hashem.

Has my generation improved the world? Have I?

40. Imru Lei-lohim (Extol G-d)	64	390	412	645	120	164
--------------------------------	----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

A call to praise and demonstrate a passionate reverence and love of G-d. We sing together with the Chazan. Many of the phrases are taken from the Bible, some with mystical references.

41. Ma-aseh Elo-heinu (The work of our G-d)	67	396	418	651	123	167

Continuing the theme of the previous segment, we read more of G-d's praises.

The key-word here is Ma-aseh – מַעֲשֵׂה (the work) stands for מ=Melech ע=Elyon ש=Shar ה=Haolam, meaning Supreme King, Master of the Universe.

The key to every success is Ma-aseh – action; and the key to action is following the path of G-d.

42. Asher Ometz (Though Your mighty praise)	68	398	420	653	123	168

We now read an amazing account of how spiritually adept the angels are, and yet G-d still prefers the prayers of simple humans. We sing along with the Chazan.

43. Al Yisrael Emunato (Faith in Him)		68	400	422	655	124	169
--	--	-----------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

This poem depicts G-d's special relationship to Israel in all areas. In some verses the poem describes how G-d gives something (majesty, purity, pleasantness) to Israel. In other, it describes how certain characteristics of the world depend upon our performance of the commandments.

44. Ha-aderet (Power and trustworthiness)	445	70	402	424	657	124	170

Jewish tradition teaches that the angels sing the following praise to G-d each day at the time we say Baruch She'amar in our morning prayers.

45. L'ei-l Orech Din (To the Al-mighty...)	446	77	404	426	661	125	170

Yom Kippur is the second stage of the all-important annual 10 day judgement period. We now read a description of G-d's unique form of judgement.

We repeat the first phrase after the Chazan, and then say each set of 2 phrases ahead of the Chazan.

46. Kedushah	171	78	406	428	665	125	171
---------------------	------------	-----------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

Although the Ark has been closed, we remain standing for the Kedushah. Kedushah describes how the angels praise G-d every day. As we stand now, with our feet together, singing these same praises, we empower the angels to rise and sing to G-d. We say each section ahead of the Chazan.

As we say the words Kadosh, Kadosh, Kadosh – Holy, Holy, Holy we raise our heels off the ground to physically represent the flight of Angels.

Does the thought of holiness help me soar?

47. Repetition of the Amidah continues		79	406	430	667	126	172

Over the next series of paragraphs, the Chazan expresses our wish that G-d be clearly realised by us as the Supreme King.

48. Z'chor (Remember...)		90	414	434	669	128	175
---------------------------------	--	-----------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We now begin the Selichot (supplications) section where we quote a collection of verses that describe G-d's greatness and recall His willingness to forgive us.

49. Shema Koleinu (Hear our voice)	443	92	416	438	673	130	177

We repeat the next four lines responsively after the Chazan. Each line highlights our plea to G-d not to abandon us, and to have mercy on us at this crucial time and for the rest of our lives.

Hashem's gates are open right now. Do I know what to pray for?

50. Elo-heinu..Ki Anu (Our G-d..For we are)	443	92	418	440	675	130	178
--	------------	-----------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We joyfully describe the unique closeness to G-d that we, the Jewish nation, enjoy. This song first lays out 12 aspects of the relationship we have with G-d, and then four aspects of our sin and inadequacy. G-d is merciful and infinite; therefore we confess our sins and seek His forgiveness.

51. Ashamnu (We have transgressed)	444	93	418	440	675	131	179
---	------------	-----------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

The next section follows the order of the Hebrew alphabet and forms a general confession. We gently strike our chest (over the heart, with a closed fist) while saying each phrase in this paragraph.

52. Al Chet (For the sin...)	444	96	422	444	679	132	180
-------------------------------------	------------	-----------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We once again recite the full confession as we did during the silent Amidah, gently strike the left side of our chests with a close fist each time we recite the word Shechatanu (we have committed).

In the Yom Kippur service, sins are expressed in the plural not only to save individuals from embarrassment, but so the congregation as a whole can attain true atonement. As the great 16th century Kabbalist, the Arizal, said, “Confession is written in the plural, ‘we have sinned,’ because all Israel is considered as one body, and every person is a limb of that body.

If I was to truly feel as one with every fellow Jew, would I be forgiven for my individual sins?

53. V'David Avdecha (David, Your servant...)	98	426	448	685	135	184
---	-----------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

These next few pages describe the uniqueness of Yom Kippur, a day when G-d not only forgives us, but even repairs the spiritual damage we may have caused ourselves during the year.

54. Mi Ei-I Kamocha (Who is like You)	101	430	452	689	136	186
--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We recite the refrain Mi Ei-I Kamocha (Who is like You) to the descriptions of G-d's graciousness and glory.

55. Modim (We thankfully...)	438	103	432	454	693	138	188
-------------------------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

Stand and say the small inset paragraph while bowing.

56. Kaddish	106	440	462	699	141	192

We stand and respond “Amen” as indicated in the Machzor.

This concludes the repetition of the Amidah.

57. Shir Shel Yom (The song of the day)	11	236	462	91	142	193

In Temple times, the Levites would read a special Psalm each day. We now read that special song.

We reference the day of the week by counting from Shabbos. Sunday is the 1st day since Shabbos, Monday the 2nd & etc. We try to bring Shabbos (torah and Mitzvos) with us into our week (daily life).

Do I bring Shabbos into my week – the spiritual into the mundane, or, G-d forbid, the opposite?

58. Removing Torahs from the Ark	447	107	440	472	701	145	198
---	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

The removal of the Torahs from the Ark is preceded by the recitation of an extra prayer relating to the Holiness of this day. The Shelosh Esrai Middot – Thirteen Attributes of Mercy, the prayer that G-d taught Moses to recite to invoke His mercy and forgiveness following the sin of the golden calf. It is recited three times, followed by a personal supplication for spiritual and physical success.

59. Torah Reading	110	452	484	711	148	202
--------------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

The Torah reading is about the solemn service in the Temple on the Day of Atonement, conducted by the High Priest himself. Only one day a year was the High Priest permitted to enter the Holy of Holies to offer incense and recite a prayer on behalf of the entire people – this day was Yom Kippur.

קטורת - incense- can alternatively be translated as a knot; a permanent connection.

I am permanently connected to my G-d and nothing will ever sever that bond

60. Hagbah – Lifting of the Torah	447	113	460	490	717	150	206
--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

With the conclusion of the reading from the Torah, the Torah is lifted for all to see, and we recite Vzot Ha-torah (This is the Torah). This is the same Torah that Moses placed before the children of Israel. Nothing in it has changed. It is as relevant today as it was then.

Which of my hobbies and preoccupations, to which I currently devote so much time, will still be relevant in a few years? What legacy do I leave behind for my children?

The torah we study and the people we inspire to follow in G-d's way are the only permanent mark that we make in this world.

61. Maftir	113	458	490	717	150	206

The Maftir reading is read from the second Torah, from the portion of the Torah in which G-d commands us regarding the observances of Yom Kippur.

62. Haftarah	114	462	494	719	150	207

The Haftarah speaks about the true meaning of repentance. The Prophet urges us to approach repentance wholeheartedly, with a genuine resolve to return to the ways of the Torah.

Fasting alone is not enough. “Rather, this is the fast that I will choose, loosen the fetters of wickedness... offer your bread to the hungry...” Though G-d is exalted and dwells on High, the Prophet says, He also relates to the contrite and humble of spirit.

Furthermore, no repentance can be complete without a better appreciation of the holy Shabbat: “If you restrain your feet because of the Shabbat from attending to your affairs on My holy day, and you call the Shabbat delight... and you honour it by not following your customary ways, refraining from pursuing your affairs and from speaking profane things, then you shall delight in the L-rd...”

63. Yekum Purkan (May there come forth)		468			152	209
--	--	------------	--	--	------------	------------

Written in Aramaic, these prayers invoke Divine protection of rabbis, students, communal leaders, and synagogue worshipers.

This is followed by a prayer for the welfare of the community and a prayer for the Holy Land of Israel.

Yizkor – Memorial Service

Those who have lost one or both parents recite the Yizkor service. Others leave the synagogue until the completion of the Yizkor service; to advocate long life for their living parents.

The Yizkor service is much more than a service of remembrance. During Yizkor the souls of the departed descend from heaven and join with those who are close to them. The message they bear is clear. We are not to remember just their mortal life, but all that they stood for. The focus is primarily on the Neshamah, the soul.

From their perspective, we are fortunate. We are alive and can still effect change in the course of our lives. We still have the ability to choose right over wrong. The departed do not.

They beseech us to follow the traditions they passed down to us – for our sake, as much as for theirs. For when we heed their call and turn toward G-d, we give wings to their souls, enabling them to rise to even higher spiritual heights, and we gather the necessary strength to recommit ourselves to the ways of the Torah. When we take their message to heart, we have accomplished the purpose of Yizkor.

We emerge from the Yizkor service charged with a renewed commitment to living Jewishly, and passing a vibrant love for Jewish life on to our children.

It is customary to silently pledge money to Tzedakah – charity, to give merit to the souls of the departed. The pledge should be fulfilled after Yom Kippur.

64. Yizkor (May G-d remember)	447/8	119	472	502	729	154	210
--------------------------------------	--------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

This paragraph is recited while standing. At the marked location in the prayer mention the Hebrew name of the deceased and that of his or her father.

65. Av Harachamim (May the All-Merciful)	-	476	506	733	154	211
---	---	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We remain standing as the Chazan recites this moving prayer, beseeching G-d to remember the pious and upright who gave their lives for the sanctification of G-d's name. We pray that G-d avenge the blood of His people and render judgement upon our enemies.

66. Ashrei (Happy are those)	437	121	478	508	737	155	212
-------------------------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The Psalm of Ashrei, written by King David offers praise to the creator according to the letters of the Alef Bet.

67. Return the Torahs to the Ark	448	122	478	508	739	155	213
---	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The Chazan and Congregation chant while the Torahs are carried from the Bimah (reading platform) back to the Ark.

Musaf – Additional Service Yom Kippur Day

	Adler/Rout	ArtScroll A	ArtScroll S	Birnbaum	Chabad	Annotated
68. Opening Prayer – Hineni (Here am I)	-	482	512	743	156	213

In this heartfelt prayer, the Chazan expresses his unworthiness to represent the Congregation before G-d, yet beseeches Him to accept his prayers on behalf of the Congregation.

Who am I kidding? Do I really feel unworthy? I know those things that I do well; I know why they've chosen me to lead. How can I claim to be 'unworthy' Surely if I was truly humble, I wouldn't have the courage to stand up here in the first place.

True humility is not a result of an undervaluation of one's talents and accomplishments. That is a false humility, built on a false foundation. Rather, the truly humble individual is keenly aware of all his strengths and qualities—but simultaneously recognises that all these talents are G-d-given. If another person had been blessed with the same gifts, perhaps he would have accomplished the same as you—or perhaps even more.

Don't confuse humility with meekness. In truth, the humble person is very driven and will not stomach any opposition. But he is not driven by his own ego; he is driven by a desire to implement the Divine plan.

69. The Amidah	124	486	514	745	156	215
-----------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

We will now begin the Amidah, the silent devotion. We start by taking three steps back and three steps forward, standing with our feet together as we read the next pages silently.

70. Repetition of the Musaf Amidah	134	502	532	763	165	227
---	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The Chazan will now repeat the Amidah. This is an interactive experience and we should try to participate by answering "Amen", reading the responsive sections marked 'Congregation,' and singing along where we can.

71. Shoshan Eimek (Israel, likened to a rose)	134	502	532	765	165	227
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The Jewish nation is termed the rose of the valley. A rose has potential beauty, but also stands vulnerable. On Yom Kippur we hope to uncover our inner spiritual beauty. The Zohar writes that a rose is surrounded thirteen petals and every Jew is, likewise, surrounded by thirteen channels of mercy.

72. Yom Miyamim (The distinguished Day)	135	504	534	767	165	228

This section describes how G-d selected Yom Kippur from all the days of the year and imbued it with unique purifying properties.

Rabbi Isaac Luria, the famed Kabbalist known as the Arizal, taught that anyone who does not cry during the Ten Days of Repentance demonstrates that his soul is incomplete. The Baal Shem Tov explained that one must cry from joy over the great opportunity that G-d grants us to draw near to Him.

73. Esah Dei-iy (I turn my thoughts)	138	512	542	773	166	230
---	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The next paragraphs are said responsively with the Chazan. He reads the full line, and we respond with the half line that follows.

74. Imru Leilo-him (Extol G-d)	144	522	552	781	168	233
---------------------------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

This section describes a passionate outpouring of reverence and love of G-d. Many of the phrases are taken from the Bible, some with mystical references.

75. Ma-aseh Elo-heinu (The work of our G-d)	146	524	554	785	169	235
--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We now praise the great works of G-d. We begin by saying that G-d is powerful in His assembly – originally that referred to the Temple, today it refers to the synagogue.

If Hashem is great here, shouldn't I be here more often?

76. Asher Eimatecha (Though awe of You)	147	526	556	787	170	236
--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

G-d has created numerous spiritual beings, all of whom are capable of praising G-d far better than we are. Yet, G-d prefers to listen to our words of praise.

77. Unetane Tokef (Let us proclaim)	448	149	530	560	789	171	238
--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

This poet hymn was authored by the great martyr, Rabbi Amnon, who suffered tremendous torture at the hands of the Duke of Hesse some 800 years ago, when he refused to give up his Jewish faith.

As he lay limbless in the synagogue on the High Holidays, he requested permission to sanctify the great name of G-d, and proceeded to recite this prayer. It has since become an integral part of the services.

The prayer portrays G-d as the Shepherd of His flock, counting and examining each sheep one by one as it passes under His rod. So does He reviews the flock of humanity one by one, determining each individual's fate for the coming year.

Sheep naturally follow their shepherd. A Jew naturally follows G-d. I am a Jew.

78. Kedushah	239	151	534	564	793	172	239

Kedushah is the prayer in which we sanctify G-d's name and declare Him to be Omnipresent. It is based on the scriptural description of the heavenly rendition of Kedushah by the Angels.

Stand with our feet close together for the Kedushah, which is said responsively (first Congregation then Chazan).

79. Vechol Ma-aminim (And all believe)	448	152	538	570	797	173	241
---	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We stand and declare that we are “Ma’aminim B’nei Ma’aminim – believers, the children of believers.” We proclaim our complete faith in G-d in this section.

It is worth reflecting on the extent of our own faith – whether we are guilty of only using G-d as the One to blame when things go wrong, or whether we have faith and trust in His supervision, guidance and direction of the world.

80. Repetition of the Amidah continues	154	544	572	801	173	242

Over the next series of paragraphs, the Chazan expresses our wish that G-d be clearly realised by us as the Supreme King. He will also read an overview of the Yom Kippur offerings in the Temple.

81. Aleinu (It is incumbent...)	438	157	550	580	807	177	245
--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

When we say Aleinu, we submit ourselves to G-d as subjects would to their King. To illustrate this, we prostrate ourselves to G-d during this prayer.

When we say the words “Va-anachnu Korim” (But, we bend the knee), we should kneel. At the word “Umishtachavim” (bow down), we should bend over so that our forehead touches the ground. Complete the sentence in this position, then rise for the remainder of the prayer.

Women may simply bow their heads if they prefer.

A Jew bows to no man, no thing and no idea – except to G-d Alm-ghty, and to Him we prostrate ourselves fully

	Adler/Rout	ArtScroll A	ArtScroll S	Birnbaum	Chabad	Annotated
82. The Avodah (The Yom Kippur Service)	159	554	584	811	178	246

We now begin the Avodah (service), the longest section of the Yom Kippur Musaf. We may be seated at this time.

In the days of our Temple in Jerusalem, Yom Kippur was characterised by a series of special services that the High Priest would administer. What we recite is a chronicle of those events.

We begin by reading that G-d selected certain individuals throughout history to perform holy duties in His Temple. This lineage passed through Aharon, father of the family of Kohanim – priests.

Before engaging in the special Yom Kippur procedures, the High Priest had to spend a full week in spiritual preparation and purity.

When something is important, I put in the preparation to get it right. My family is important to me, what am I going to do, starting from today to ensure that we have a Jewish future?

83. Vehakohanim (And when the Kohanim)	161	560	592	815	180	249

Yom Kippur is the holiest day of the year; the High Priest was the holiest member of the community and the Temple the holiest spot on earth. With the convergence of these three elements, the stage was set for supreme Divine revelation.

At certain strategic times during the Yom Kippur service in the Temple, the High Priest would proclaim G-d's ineffable name aloud. At that time, the entire assembly would prostrate themselves before G-d as a sign of submission to Him.

We recall this custom by bowing to the ground during this paragraph: At the words Hayu Korim (they would bend their knees), we kneel; at the word Umishtachavim (bow down), we bow; at the phrase Venoflim Al Peneihem (and fall on their faces), we touch our foreheads to the ground. Recite the remainder of the paragraph in that position.

84. The Azazel (The Scapegoat)	161	562	592	817	180	250

One of the unusual services performed in the Temple was the Seir L'Azazel (the scapegoat). The High Priest would select two goats and then draw lots to determine what would happen to each. One was selected to be a sacrifice and the other to be a scapegoat.

The scapegoat was led to the outskirts of Jerusalem and thrown from a cliff. Tied around its horns was a piece of scarlet thread. The remainder of this thread was tied inside the Temple complex. When the goat was thrown from the cliff, the thread inside the Temple would miraculously turn white, in keeping with G-d's assurance to us "if your sins be red as scarlet, they will become white as snow."

85. Vehakohanim (And when the Kohanim)	162	562	592	817	181	250
---	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We once again recall how the High Priest would proclaim G-d's ineffable name aloud and how the entire assembly would prostrate themselves before G-d as a sign of submission to Him.

We again recall this custom, by bowing to the ground during this paragraph

86. V'chach Hayta (The following was the prayer)	-	-	596	-	182	252
---	---	---	------------	---	------------	------------

Yom Kippur was the only time of year when the High Priest was permitted to enter the Holiest inner chamber of the Temple – the Holy of Holies. While so close to G-d, he would pray that the New Year would bring good rains, sufficient sustenance. He would also pray that no woman would miscarry in the coming year.

87. V'chach Haya Moneh (And thus he would count)	163	564	596	-	182	252
--	-----	-----	-----	---	-----	-----

The High Priest was charged with the responsibility of sprinkling the blood of the sacrifices inside the Temple building. In the next few paragraphs we read how he counts the eight times he sprinkles the blood of each sacrifice. Eight is a special number that alludes to the supernatural reality of Yom Kippur.

The Cohen would throw blood onto the Altar. So too I must ensure that my blood (my warmth and passion) is directed exclusively towards holy things

88. Vehakohanim (And when the Kohanim)	164	566	600	821	184	254
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

We once again recall how the High Priest would proclaim G-d's ineffable name aloud and how the entire assembly would prostrate themselves before G-d as a sign of submission to Him.

We again recall this custom, by bowing to the ground during this paragraph

Didn't we just do this? And then again? And again? How many times must I submit? What does each act of submission add?

89. Achar Kaloto (After he had finished)	164	566	602	821	185	256
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The High Priest would read from the Torah in the presence of the community, and also remind the people that there is much more to the Torah than the portions he had just read.

The High Priest would re-enter the Holy of Holies to retrieve the utensils he had used there earlier and then conclude the Yom Kippur service.

All Israel would celebrate the High Priest's safe emergence from the Temple – a sure sign that G-d had forgiven them.

90. Yehi Ratson (May it be Your will)	166	570	604	825	185	256
---------------------------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

We read a special prayer for blessing for the coming year. The prayer contains a blessing for each letter of the Hebrew alphabet.

91. K'ohel Hanimtach (Like the resplendent) 449	166	570	604	827	186	257

After the day's service on Yom Kippur, the High Priest would return home radiant. What follows is a description of his glowing appearance and the joy that accompanied him home.

The two greatest joys in life are a) successfully overcoming a challenge and b) helping someone in need. We are the spiritual heirs of the High Priest and we can and must emulate this commitment to others, even at risk to self. When we do so, isn't that worth celebrating?

92. Selichot (Supplications)	168	572	606	829	187	258

The tone of the Avodah now takes a dramatic change. The description of the service in the Temple and the almost automatic blessing from G-d is very beautiful. Now, we acknowledge that we are no longer so privileged. We also recognise that this is due to our spiritual ineptitude. And we pray that G-d will restore our Temple to us with Moshiach very soon.

Each element of the Temple was designed to draw a unique spiritual energy into the community. We enumerate each element individually and mourn the fact that we are missing these amazing spiritual gifts.

You may notice that these paragraphs are set out quite differently to the rest of the Yom Kippur prayers. Most of the prayers have been organised in alphabetical order, whereas a number of these segments are in reverse alphabetical order – In other words, beginning with the last letter of the Alef Bet and working backwards. This subtly implies that our world, without the spiritual revelation that was available through the Temple, has been turned upside down.

The last paragraphs in this section express our heartfelt prayer that G-d will imminently restore the spiritual hub of our lives, the Temple, by sending Moshiach.

The Ten Martyrs

What follows now is a most moving account of how ten of Judaism's greatest scholars were brutally murdered by the Romans almost 2,000 years ago.

The ten martyrs were saintly men, the most pious members of their generation. As we read this account, we will discover that they were murdered in response to an incident that had occurred centuries earlier. The story of how Joseph's brothers sold him into slavery may be familiar. All ten martyrs died as a form of Divine retribution for that incident.

First to be killed was Rabbi Shimon, who was decapitated. Rabbi Yishmael was forced to witness this terrible scene. Meanwhile, the Roman princess saw Rabbi Yishmael, who was a very handsome man, and begged her father to spare his life. Instead, the emperor instructed the executioner to flay the skin from Rabbi Yishmael's face so that his daughter could enjoy his beauty.

Rabbi Chananya ben Tradyon was burned to death wrapped in a Torah scroll. To prolong his suffering, the Romans placed wet wool on his chest. Rabbi Chananya begged the executioner to remove the wool, which he did after Rabbi Chananya assured him of a portion in the world to come.

The Romans used huge iron combs to rake Rabbi Akivah to death. Yet, he was glad to give his life for G-d's sake and died with the word Echad from the first line of Shema on his lips.

In grief, the angels cry out: "Is this the reward for Torah?!"

A voice from heaven responds: "This is my decree; submit to it."

The angels' cry echoes through history – through the Crusades, pogroms, gas chambers and suicide bombers. Their cry reverberates in our prayers today; cries that pierce the heavens, and still await a response.

G-d, we have submitted to Your superior judgment for centuries. But we demand more. We appeal to You to end the pain, to end the bloodshed, to end all suffering.

Today is the holiest day of the year. We are engaged in the prayer of transcendence. We have just read about the pinnacle of all life experience – entering the Holy of Holies and drawing close to G-d. But, even as we touch an angelic world of spiritual focus, we cannot forget that we live in a world of pain. And we demand a response.

Today there can be no denial. Today there is no escape. Even at the height of our spiritual elevation, we remember our losses, and we implore G-d to amend for them. We ask Him for Moshiach. This is the ultimate transcendence.

94. Z'chor (Remember...)		181	592	626	845	194	270
---------------------------------	--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

As we have done at each of the Yom Kippur prayers, we now read the Selichot – supplication prayers.

One theme that we will now see is that G-d takes a personal interest in our spiritual wellbeing and that as long as we make some effort to grow, He will guide us and assist us.

95. Shema Koleinu (Hear our voice)	443	183	596	630	847	195	272
---	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We repeat the next four lines responsively after the Chazan. Each line highlights our plea to G-d not to abandon us, and to have mercy on us at this crucial time and for the rest of our lives.

96. Elo-heinu..Ki Anu (Our G-d..For we are)	443	183	596	630	849	195	273
--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We joyfully describe the unique closeness to G-d that we, the Jewish nation, enjoy. This song first lays out 12 aspects of the relationship we have with G-d, and then four aspects of our sin and inadequacy. G-d is merciful and infinite; therefore we confess our sins and seek His forgiveness.

	Transliteration	Adler/Rout	ArtScroll A	ArtScroll S	Birnbaum	Chabad	Annotated
97. Ashamnu (We have transgressed)	444	184	598	632	849	196	273

The next section follows the order of the Hebrew alphabet and forms a general confession. We gently strike our chest (over the heart, with a closed fist) while saying each phrase in this paragraph.

98. Al Chet (For the sin...)	186	600	634	853	197	275

We once again recite the full confession as we did during the silent Amidah, gently strike the left side of our chests with a close fist each time we recite the word Shechatanu (we have committed).

Sins are not transgressions per se, but disconnections. When we sin we actually displace and disconnect ourselves from our own true self. A sin is, therefore, not only committed against G-d, it is committed against our own self.

We continue to read the next few paragraphs silently.

We read a very perplexing line in this section “fortunate is he who was not created.” The Talmud in tractate Eruvin describes that the sages debated for two and-a-half years whether or not it was good for man to be created – seeing as we have such a hard time steering clear of sin. Eventually they concluded that man would have been better off not having been created. However, since we have been created, we have a responsibility to examine our deeds and do Teshuvah (repent), because the true value of life is attained through Mitzvah observance.

100. Modim (We thankfully)	438	192	612	646	865	202	282
-----------------------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

Stand and say the small inset paragraph while bowing and acknowledging Hashem.

101. Birchat Kohanim (Priestly Blessing)	450	193	614	648	869	203	284
---	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The Kohanim now bless the community. The Kohanim are the purveyors of peace and blessing from G-d to His people, and as such ascend to the platform before the Ark to recite the priestly blessing.

We avoid looking at the Kohanim at this time; however one should not turn one's back to the Kohanim. Men may cover their face with their Tallit. Children often enjoy the special feeling of standing with their father underneath his Tallit. When the Kohanim conclude each of the verses, we answer “Amen.”

The words ViChuneka – and be gracious to you, can also be translated He should rest within you. The greatest blessing and source of grace is when G-d rests within us.

As the Kohanim return to their places, it is customary to thank them with the words, “Yishar Koach” (may you have strength).

102. Hayom T'amtzeinu (On this day...)	450	195	622	656	875	205	286
---	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

We are about to conclude the Musaf prayer, confident that G-d has sealed us for a good year. This is based on G-d's promise (in Isaiah) that he would maintain Israel as His Chosen People and think of us always as his servants, the offspring of His beloved Patriarch. He assured the people that even in exile He would strengthen them with the right hand of his righteousness, an allusion to His Divine and unlimited mercy.

We repeat the first phrase after the Chazan and then read one phrase ahead of him for the rest of this section. After the Chazan says each phrase, we answer “Amen.”

103. Kaddish	196	624	658	877	205	287
---------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

We stand and respond “Amen” as indicated in the Machzor.

This concludes the Musaf service.

In most communities there is a break at this point until services resume with the Mincha (afternoon) Service.

104. Removing Torah from the Ark	447	197	626	664	881	214	302
---	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

The Torah is removed from the Ark for a special reading during the afternoon service.

105. Torah Reading	199	630	668	885	215	304
---------------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

The Torah reading speaks of the purity of Jewish life. The Torah warns us not to follow in the immoral ways of Egyptians and native Canaanites, “that the land spew you not out, when you defile it, as it spewed out the nations that were before you.”

106. Lifting of the Torah	447	200	634	672	887	216	305
----------------------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

With the conclusion of the reading from the Torah, the Torah is lifted for all to see, and we recite Vzot Ha-torah (This is the Torah). This is the same Torah that Moses placed before the children of Israel. Nothing in it has changed. It is as relevant today as it was then.

----------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We read the entire Book of Jonah. It contains a timely message on the importance of repentance and prayer. If sinfulness can cause the land to vomit its inhabitants, repentance can cause the fish to deposit Jonah back on dry land and return him to life. One should never despair. Prayer and repentance lead from darkness to light, from the shadow of death to a new life.

108. Return the Torahs to the Ark	448	205	648	686	897	219	213
--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

The Chazan and Congregation chant while the Torah is carried from the Bimah (reading platform) back to the Ark.

109. The Amidah	206	650	688	899	219	310
------------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We rise for the Amidah, the prayer in which we pour forth our requests to G-d. Before beginning the Amidah, we take three steps back and then three steps forward, as if approaching a King.

Mincha means a gift. How is prayer a gift? To whom?

110. Repetition of the Mincha Amidah	215	666	704	915	229	320
---	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

The Chazan begins the repetition of the Amidah.

We will be the Chazan’s back-up team, responding with “Amen” and joining in at various points marked ‘Congregation,’ to add impetus to his prayers.

Please remember that whenever the Ark is open, one should stand out of respect.

111. Eitan Hikir (The mighty Abraham recognised)	215	666	704	917	229	320
---	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We recall the faith, commitment and dedication of our Patriarch Abraham. Over the next couple of pages we also recall the self-sacrifice of Isaac and the perfection of Jacob. We ask G-d to look down upon us and grant us pardon in the merit of the righteousness of our Patriarchs.

We recite this together silently.

112. Kedushah	323	219	672	708	923	230	323
----------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We rise for Kedushah, which describes how the angels praise G-d every day. As we stand now, with our feet together, singing these same praises, we empower the angels to rise and sing to G-d. We say each section ahead of the Chazan.

113. Z’chor (Remember...)	230	676	714	927	233	326
----------------------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We now begin the Selichot (supplications) section where we quote a collection of verses to express G-d’s greatness and recall His willingness to forgive us.

114. Ei-I Na R'fa Na (O G-d, pray)		-	678	716	-	233	327
---	--	---	------------	------------	---	------------	------------

This prayer is known as the ‘Selichot (supplications) for children’s illnesses,’ and is also recited during epidemics afflicting children. Each stanza ends with a reference to an historical instance when G-d intervened with a miraculous salvation.

115. Shema Koleinu (Hear our voice)	443	232	682	720	931	235	330
--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We repeat the next four lines responsively after the Chazan. Each line highlights our plea to G-d not to abandon us and to have mercy on us at this crucial time and for the rest of our lives.

116. Elo-heinu... Ki Anu (Our G-d...For we are...)		232	682	720	933	235	331
---	--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We describe the unique closeness to G-d that we, the Jewish nation, enjoy. This song first lays out 12 aspects of the relationship we have with G-d, and then four aspects of our sin and inadequacy. G-d is merciful and infinite, therefore we confess our sins and seek His forgiveness.

117. Ashamnu (We have transgressed)	444	233	684	722	935	236	331

The next section follows the order of the Hebrew alphabet and forms a general confession. We gently strike our chest (over the heart, with a closed fist) while saying each phrase in this paragraph.

Notice that the confessions are in the plural form, i.e. we have committed. This is because the Jewish people are intrinsically united with one another, and depend on each other's spiritual well-being. We therefore not only beg for forgiveness for ourselves, but for the Jewish people as a whole.

When I care about others as deeply as I care about myself, I too will deserve forgiveness

118. Al Chet (For the sin...)		235	686	724	937	237	333
--------------------------------------	--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We once again recite the full confession as we did during the silent Amidah, gently strike the left side of our chests with a close fist each time we recite the word Shechatanu (we have committed).

119. V'David Avdecha (David, Your servant...)		237	692	730	943	240	336
--	--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

These next few pages describe the uniqueness of Yom Kippur, a day when G-d not only forgives us, but even repairs the spiritual damage we may have caused ourselves during the year.

120. Mi Ei-I Kamocha (Who is like You)		239	694	732	947	241	338
---	--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We recite the refrain Mi Ei-I Kamocha (Who is like You) to descriptions of G-d's graciousness and glory.

121. Modim (We thankfully...)	438	241	696	734	949	242	340
--------------------------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

Stand and say the small inset paragraph while bowing.

122. Kaddish		242	704	742	953	245	344
---------------------	--	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	------------

We stand and respond “Amen” as indicated in the Machzor.

This concludes the Mincha service.

123. Ashrei (Fortunate)	437	243	706	744	957	247	347

Ne-ilah means “closing the gate.” As the awesome day of Yom Kippur comes to a close, and our judgement for the coming year is being sealed, we turn to G-d with this final prayer while the “99 gates of mercy” are still open.

It is important to concentrate all our efforts on these final prayers, imploring G-d to accept our sincere repentance and new resolutions, and that He “seal” us in the Book of Life, granting us a new year replete with goodness and true happiness.

We rise and the Ark is opened for the entire service. It is considered a source of great merit, for those who are physically able, to remain standing the entire service.

124. The Amidah	246	712	750	963	249	350
------------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

In this prayer we pour forth our requests to G-d. Before beginning the Amidah, we take three steps back, and then three steps forward, as if approaching a King.

125. Repetition of the Ne-ilah Amidah	253	726	764	977	255	358
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The Chazan begins the repetition of the Amidah.

126. Av Yeda-acha (The Patriarch)	253	726	764	977	255	358
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

The next two sections are said responsively, alternating verses with the Chazan.

127. Sha-arei Armon (open the gates)	450	255	730	768	981	256	360
---	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

In this heartfelt prayer we ask G-d to open the gates of His heavenly palace to allow our prayers to enter.

128. Kedushah	360	256	730	768	983	256	360
----------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

We rise for the Kedushah. Kedushah describes how the angels praise G-d every day. As we stand now, with our feet together, singing these same praises, we empower the angels to rise and sing to G-d.

An angel is a spiritual reality with its own unique content, qualities and character

The word for angel in Hebrew, "malach", means also "messenger". As its name in Hebrew signifies, the nature of the angel is to be an envoy, thereby constituting a permanent contact between worlds.

An angel's missions transpire in two directions: it may serve as an emissary of G-d toward the earthly and/or it may also serve as the one who carries heavenwards from below, from our world to the higher worlds.

What is my unique mission and what message do I proclaim?

129. Repetition of the Amidah continues	256	732	770	983	256	361
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

Over the next series of paragraphs, the Chazan expresses our wish that G-d be clearly realised by us as the Supreme King.

130. P'tach Lanu (Open for us the gate)	450	258	736	774	987	259	364
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

In the following three stanzas we implore G-d to hear our prayers and grant atonement in the last minutes of this holy and awesome day.

131. Ei-I Melech (Al-mighty King)	258	738	774	987	259	364

132. Hashem Hashem (L-rd, L-rd)	447	259	740	774	987	259	365

As we have seen throughout Yom Kippur, this special formula – the 13 attributes of Mercy – is especially designed to clean our slate and purify our souls.

Every parent knows that, as upset as we get at our child/ren, we still love them and forgive them for whatever they do wrong. G-d calls Himself our father and so we ask Him to treat us as any loving father would treat His only child.

133. Merubim Tzorchei (The needs of Your people)	260	742	780	991	260	366
---	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

In the next five stanzas, we ask G-d to bless us with all we need, even if we don't always understand what we really need.

What are my needs? What are my wants? What's the difference?

134. Hashem Hashem (L-rd, L-rd)	447	-	742	780	995	261	367
--	-----	---	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

Once again, we declare G-d's 13 attributes of Mercy.

135. Enkat Mesaldecha (May the cry)	262	746	784	997	261	368
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

In keeping with the general theme of Ne-ilah, we again entreat G-d to hear our prayers, shelter us and look after us.

Repeat each stanza after the Chazan.

136. Hashem Hashem (L-rd, L-rd)	447	263	746	784	997	261	368
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

Once again, we declare G-d's 13 attributes of Mercy.

The poetic section that follows expresses the potency of these 13 attributes of Divine Mercy. The 13 attributes themselves form the refrain between each stanza.

Reiterating the 13 attributes of mercy so many times during these prayers reminds me to be merciful to others. When Hashem sees that we look at other people with compassion, He shows compassion to us.

137. Rachem Nah (Have mercy)	451	263	748	786	999	262	370
-------------------------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----

We've all heard of blessings in disguise. Now, we ask G-d to give us clear and open blessings in the coming year.

Repeat each stanza after the Chazan.

138. Elo-heinu..Ki Anu (Our G-d..For we are)	443	264	750	788	1001	263	370
---	-----	-----	-----	-----	------	-----	-----

We joyfully describe the unique closeness to G-d that we, the Jewish nation, enjoy. This song first lays out 12 aspects of the relationship we have with G-d, and then four aspects of our sin and inadequacy. G-d is merciful and infinite, therefore we confess our sins and seek His forgiveness.

139. Ashamnu (We have transgressed)	444	264	752	790	1003	263	371
--	-----	-----	-----	-----	------	-----	-----

The next section follows the order of the Hebrew alphabet and forms a general confession. We gently strike our chest (over the heart, with a closed fist) while saying each phrase in this paragraph.

140. Modim (We thankfully...)	438	267	756	794	1009	267	374

141. Avinu Malkeinu (Our Father, Our King) 444		269	758	796	1011	268	376

The great Talmudic sage, Rabbi Akiva introduced Avinu Malkeinu, one of the most famous prayers of the High Holiday service, almost 2,000 years ago.

It reflects the dual relationship of intimacy and awe which we have with G-d. He is our King; with complete control and absolute power over us. Yet he is also our Father; denoting the compassion, love, care and mercy He extends to us despite our errors of the past. This theme is central and integral to the High Holidays.

142. Declaration of Faith	379	271	762	800	1017	270	379
----------------------------------	------------	------------	------------	------------	-------------	------------	------------

The three verses of faith, the apex and emotional peak of the service, are where we announce in unison the verses proclaiming Hashem as our G-d.

When we recite the first of the three verses, the Shema, we announce our willingness to sacrifice our soul for the sanctification of G-d's name. This intention will be considered as if we had indeed withstood the test to sanctify the Divine Name.

1. Shema Yisrael Ado-nai Elo-heinu Ado-nai Echad.

(Hear O Israel, the L-rd is our G-d, the L-rd is One).

The leader recites this verse and we repeat it, declaring G-d's absolute Unity.

2. Baruch Shem Kevod Malchuto Le-olam Vaed.

(Blessed be the name of the glory of His kingdom for ever and ever).

The leader recites this verse three times, and then we repeat it after him three times. This repetition expresses that G-d was, is, and always will be sovereign.

3. Ado-nai Hu Ha-e-lohim.

(G-d is the L-rd).

The leader recites this verse seven times, and we then repeat it after him seven times, escorting the Divine Presence through the seven heavens.

How ready am I? If I was called on tomorrow to make the choice between embracing a foreign religion or being put to death, would I really choose the bullet? Would I have the courage to lay down my life, just to stay true to my ancestors and my G-d?

More importantly: what am I prepared to sacrifice NOW in order to live as a Jew?

143. Kaddish	271	764	802	1017	270	379
---------------------	------------	------------	------------	-------------	------------	------------

We stand and respond "Amen" as indicated in the Machzor.

The Chazan chants this with a joyful tune, with the confidence that G-d has granted our pardon.

144. Sounding of the Shofar	379	-	764	802	1017	270	379
------------------------------------	------------	---	------------	------------	-------------	------------	------------

Before the Chazan completes the Kaddish many have the custom to sing a victory march – expressing our absolute trust that G-d has indeed sealed us for a good, blessed year.

The Shofar is sounded with one long blast, followed by the entire congregation responding with Leshanah Haba-ah Birushalayim! (Next year in Jerusalem!).

145. Conclusion of Ne-ilah	451	-	-	-	-	270	380
-----------------------------------	------------	---	---	---	---	------------	------------

Ne-ilah is concluded with Ein Kelo-heinu (There is none like our G-d) and Aleinu (It is incumbent).

146. Maariv – Evening Service	272	766	804	1019	276	390
--------------------------------------	------------	------------	------------	-------------	------------	------------

The regular daily evening service is conducted followed by Havdala.

As part of Havdala I will make a blessing on fire, to remind myself that though the world may possibly currently be spiritually dark, I have the power to illuminate the entire universe.

May all our prayers be answered for the good.

*May we be blessed with an abundance of blessings, contentment, happiness, health, nachas, peace, prosperity,
security, and spiritual growth.*

May we merit to hear the final Shofar Blast, heralding the Final Redemption and the coming of Moshiach.
